Washington, March 20th.

The Navy Department to-day received the following from Admiral Lee: Flagship Gen. Burnside—I have the honor to inform you that I took advantage of the late rise in the Tennessee River, crossed Elk River Shoals with the flagship and the Gen. Thomas, and went down to Muscle Shoals. I came across Gen. Roddin's camp, drove them off and penetrated Elk River. I am meeting with good success in encouraging loyal feelings on the south side of the river. Citizens are constantly coming in and taking the oath, and from interviews I have had with prominent men, I think there is no doubt but Alabama will return to her allegiance to the government. (Signed)

N. C. FORREST,
Lt. Col. Commanding.

The Navy Department has received information of the capture and destruction of the rebel schooner Annie Dale, by the expedition from the U. S. gunboat Panola, on the 18th inst., in Pass Cavallo, Texas.

Newbern, 16th—10 A. M.

Our forces now occupy Kinston and are repairing the bridge across the Neuse River, which will be finished in a few days. The enemy were demoralized on leaving Kinston for Goldsboro. Most of the North Carolina troops belonging in the eastern part of the state took French leave of Bragg and retired to their homes.

The Goldsboro Journal of the 7th states that a council of war was held not more than three hundred miles from that city on the 4th, consisting of their leading generals, among whom was their leader, Gen. Lee.

The weather is very warm, showing the mercury 75 in the shade.

A Colonel belonging to Sherman's army has just arrived from Wilmington. He states that Sherman will be in Goldsboro on the 20th. The enemy send no rumors of bad news from Sherman.

The Treasury and Military authorities are in favor of having Newbern and Morehead City declared ports of entry.

Boston, March 20th.

Capt. Pettigrew, of the British bark Sea Gem, at this port, states that the rebel pirate Tallahassee was at Bermuda March 11th, under another name.

The Pittsburg Chronicle of Saturday says: The Alleghany river during Friday afternoon rose fourteen feet.

Pittsburg, March 20th.

We have but meagre details of losses by the late flood, the total loss is immense, being moderately estimated at over two million dollars.

New York, M'ch 21st.

Kennedy, who was arrested at a concert since and convicted of being a spy is to be hanged at Ft. Lafayette on Saturday next.

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH. 2, 71865

Agentiferous Galena.

We give below an excellent article from the Reese River Reveille. under the above caption, which gives some valuable information with regard to this class of mines and, will therefore be very interesting to a large portion of our readers:

One of the most important of silver ores throughout the world is augentiferous galena. This, though commonly regarded as a lead ore, is the principal silver producing ore of Europe, is the and constitutes the wealth of the silver mines of northern Mexico and Arizona. Veins of argentiferous galena of great size and wealth exist interspersed throughout almost every mining district of the great Basin. The most noted localities of this mineral are at Galena, in Washoe, Rush Valley, near Salt Lake, and at Washington in this county. At this last named place the veins are very large, of almost pure ore, contain silver from $100 to $600 per ton, are accessible and in a well wooded section. Judging from reports of this class of mines, we doubt if there are any now worked in the world of equal richness and quantity of ore. Last fall some Mexicans were erecting furnaces for working the ore in the same manner that such ores are reduced in their country. We have not learned of their success. We only know that the projector of the works is the same person who first announced that the Comstock lode was silver bearing, and was once a wealthy owner in the Mexican mine of Virginia, and that he asserts that the argentiferous galena lodes of Washington constitute a far richer mining district than does the Comstock vein. Notwithstanding the wealth of the district in natural resources, it is struggling along unoticed and in poverty, it being the general impression that the reducing the ore by fire and the separation of the silver from the lead is so exceedingly expensive as to render working such mines impracticable at the present rates of labor and material in this State.

At Rush Valley and Galena furnaces have been built and quantities of very rich lead obtained, but the work has stopped because no practical way has been found to separate the lead from the silver.

The celebrated Mowry mine of Arizona is a lode of argentiferous galena, the ore paying from seventy dollars to one hundred per ton, and is worked by the Mexican process of melting, and oxidizing the lead. It is generally considered that when galena contains fifty ounces of silver per ton, it becomes a silver ore, and can be worked profitably alone for that metal. In England it is found profitable to separate the silver from lead, when that metal is found to contain but five dollars to the ton. How can it be possible, then, that the miners of this State can say that they find it impracticable to separate the two metals, when so large amounts as several hundred dollars of silver is present. Either the reports are false, or our operators are grossly ignorant of the business they have undertaken,

In England the metals are separated by what is known as the Pattinson process, founded in the circumstance that when lead containing silver is melted in a suitble vessel, afterwards slowly allowed to cool, and at the same time kept constantly stirred, at a certain temperature, near the melting point of lead, metallic crystals begin to form. These, as rapidly as they are produced, sink to the bottom, and on being removed are found to contain much less silver than the lead originally operated on. The still flued portion, from which the crystals have been removed, will at the same time be proportionally enriched.

The operation is conducted in a series of eight or ten cast iron pots, set in a row, with fireplace beneath. A quantity of lead containing silver is placed in one of the central pots, melted, carefully skimmed with a perforated ladle, and the fire immediately withdrawn. As it cools, it is stirred with an iron stirrer, and crystals soon begin to form, which are removed by a perforated ladle, the flued lead shaken out, and passed to the next pot in the row, and afterwards the enriched lead is laded into the pot in the opposite direction. If the pot at first contained six tons of lead, containing say twenty ounces of silver, four tons of crystals may be taken out in the first operation. These crystals still contain silver, and the flued is only enriched lead, but when the crystals have reached the last pot in the series, they are nearly pure lead, and the last pot in the other direction contains an alloy of silver and lead, which is finally purified by cupelling.

The cost in England of this process of operation is about $2 50 per ton, and of refining another $2 50, for the ton of rich alloy. In that country labor is the chief expense, the fuel being coal is very cheap. The operation, as carried on largely, requires considerable capital; but when it is known that such ores can be worked cheaply and successfully, and it is known that such ores exist in large quantities no more inviting investment can be offered to the capitalist.—Reese River Reveille.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION VEDETTE

New York, March 21st.

The City of London, from Liverpool the 8th and Queenstown 9th, with one days later dates, has arrived.

M. De Montholon has been appointed French Minister to Washington, and M Dano to Mexico.

It is reported that the Emperor Napoleon has finally declared that he will maintain the Empire of Mexico.

The London Star repudiates the rumors of a possible war between England and America.

The London Times, in a city article alludes to the probable shipments of gold to New York, owing to the dullness in exchange, consequent on heavy supplies of Federal bonds to the continent and the arrival of Savannah cotton at New York.

The Herald's sixth army corps correspondent of the 18th gives a report brought in by deserters that a force of Union cavalry had occupied Burksville, the junction of the Richmond and Danville and Richmond and Lynchburg railroads.

New York, March 21st.

The Herald's Wilmington correspondent of the 15th says: All refugees, deserters and prisoners, brought in by Sherman, are being brought to that place, two steamboat loads arriving on that day. On the 14th Sherman left Fayetteville, marching toward Goldsboro; before leaving, the extensive arsenal was completely destroyed - it was the largest in the South—and every cotton mill and several residences were also destroyed; six small steamers were also burned. Negroes, who have followed Sherman, will be sent to South Carolina and consigned to the care of Gen. Saxton. The rebels will make a stand, if at all, at or near Goldsboro. Johnston having united with Bragg and Conger, and reinforcements having come from Richmond, give a combination with which they hope to defeat Sherman and Schofield combined. If successful, they calculate to return and crush Grant. Our released prisoners are sent North as fast as possible; their condition is horrible, and thirty or forty die daily.

Washington, March 21st.

Passengers who arrived to day from City Point say that news from Sherman reached there on Sunday, th ough two scouts who left last week. He had occupied Goldsboro without opposition, having connected with Schofield. Sheridan is being supplied at White House with everything he may need for his future movements. His army is still idle.

New York March 21st.

The Commercial's Hatcher's Run correspondent of the 18th says: Our troops there had been under arms thirty-six hours expecting an attack from the enemy, and that movements for several days within the enemys lines gave rise to this expectation. Our troops are eager to have an attack made, and an early evacuation of Petersburg is looked for. It is reported that Sherman and Schofield are moving up the Weldon road. Our troops were never in more magnigcent spirits.

The Commercial says: A war clap will soon be heard in a quarter least expected by friend or foe.

The Central Bank was robbed yesterday of 10-40 and 5-20 bonds amounting to $69,000.

The monitor Dictatior arrived here to-day from Hampton Roads. Her officers speak of her in the highest terms A portion of the time she made twelve knots per hour, using only twenty-four furnaces out of fifty-six.

Baltimore, March 21st.

The steamer Europa arrived at Washington, bringing Maj. H. B. Compton and dispatches from Sheridan; also brought with him seventeen rebel battle flags, captured by Sheridan during his raid, seven of which he captured himself from Early's head quarters. Sheridan was at White House, on the Pamunkey river, on Sunday, but was commencing to move towards the James river, where he has probably by this time arrived.

New York, March 21st.

The correspondence between Davis, Lee and Grant, concerning a military convention to settle our difficulties, is published and contains no new facts except the one that Davis closed his letter, giving Lee authority to act, with these words: "Enter into such an arrangement as will cause at least a temporary suspension of hostilities."

The suspension of James Dart & Co., brokers, is reported, and several others are said to have gone under and two large dry goods firms are mentioned as having suspended to day.

The Post says: Two or three speculative firms collapsed to day.

The Express says: The panic in financial circles to-day, is severely felt by the commercial community, and the depression in produce and merchandise is heavy. There is a strong disposition to sell everywhere, but buyers are shy. There is a general feeling of distrust, and a failure is reported in the wool trade, and some compromises among the gold speculators.

Fort Monroe, March 20th.

By mail: Sheridan's troops are in the very best condition and appear to have suffered little or nothing from the effects of their long march from Winchester. About 300 rebel prisoners are at White House, together with some 3,000 negroes who followed the troops as they passed through the country. A large number of prisoners were captured during the raid, but owing to the rapidity of Sheridan's movements, many of them had to be abandoned and others made their escape, owing to the relaxed vigilance of their guards, who were glad to get rid of them. His entire cavalry force has crossed to the south bank of the Pamunkey and is now engaged in recruiting, preparatory to new movements.

Longstreet with his corps is supposed to be lurking in the vicinity of White House. On the evening of the arrival of Sheridan at that place, frequent skirmishes occurred between his advanced pickets and unknown small squads of the enemy, who appeared to be prowling about for reconnoitering purposes.

Newbern, N. C., March 18th.

Parties who have arrived here from Sherman's army say we shall be able to join hands with him to morrow or next day. One of them says Sherman walks over the course as fearlessly and unconcerned as a giant among pigmies, and the enemy are so demoralized and panic stricken, that it is doubtful whether they will make a stand or not. In a debate in the North Carolina legislature a few weeks since, one member stated the entire effective force of the confederacy numbered only 121,000 men, which statement on being questioned was substantiated by an official document from Richmond. The state authorities in N C, who allow no guerrillas to prowl within the borders of the State have remonstrated with the authorities at Richmond against the inhuman treatment extended by the rebel government to prisoners of war. Steamers daily ascend the Neuse river to Kinston with supplies for Schofield's and Sherman's armies.

Later—Lt. Knox, chief signal officer just from the front says: reports were brought in from Goldsboro stating that the enemy had evacuated that place and were moving towards Virginia.

Additional by steamer—The French minister of Public instructions has tendered his resignation, but Napoleon refused to accept it. In the absence of later news from America which was anxiously expected to result in the fall of Charleston continued to be eagerly canvassed The Times says the next operations are expected with similar interest. The Federals have recovered their military reputation; but if the South is still resolved to stand out till the end, they have made but little progress towards the conclusion of the war.

In an other editorial the Times says: Signs of Confederate exhaustion have been brought to us that the turning point which places us within sight of the final scene and the part we shall be called on to play in it as the Federal Govenment maintains the quarrel with England in hope of claims which she doesn't acknowledge. The question we have to adress ourselves to, is simply whether they can go to war with us with fair prospects of success, if they can, they certainly will. The Times argues that the Washington Government will show its wisdom by not attacking the immediate conclusion of peace, but it will be for English Statesmen at the proper time to see that the quarrel is not allowed to hang over till it suits American's convenience and opportunity.

New York, March 21st.

The Times' special says: Deserters bring the report that the evacuation of Richmond is spoken of openly as inevitable and as a necessity. Since the destruction of the James River Canal the wealthy were removing themselves and effects to such parts of the state as they thought would remain unmolested, and with the canal gone it was impossible to feed the citizens and army. Large numbers of negroes are impressed to repair the damages, while at the same time the organization of colored soldiers had commenced.

The Tribune's special says: A Richmond grocer arrived to-day and took the oath of allegiance. He left Richmond on the 17th. The rebel authorities, in anticipation of really an attack by Grant, were placing in the entrenchments every man and boy capable of handling a musket. The government records had been packed up preparatory to removal, and enormous prices were demanded by those who had produce to sell. There is great suffering among the poorer classes, many of whom were actually starving. The prices of everything had more than doubled since Sheridan's wholesale destructions of the canal and railroads. Flour is selling at $1,500 per brl., meat $10 per lb., whisky $400 per gall., and other things in proportion. Board at the hotels is $100 per day; common board for laborers $10 per day.

The Commercial's correspondent says: There are unmistakable indications that the rebels are either massing a force for a desperate battle or that they are preparing to evacuate Petersburg, and perhaps Richmond

New York, March 21st.

The Tribune's army of the James special of the 19th says: Gen. Kautz' cavalry division returned early this morning from a three days tramp in the direction of White House. The crossing of the Chickahominy was made at the long bridge. Reconnoitering parties were sent out in different directions four or five miles beyond the river, towards New Kent Court House. A considerable force of the enemy, believed to be a portion of Pickett's division, was found temporarily in occupation of the county. Our forces were quietly withdrawn last night at 11 o'clock. Details of the reconnoisance are comparatively uninteresting.

The James river took a sudden rise this morning, overflowing its banks in many places; doing no damage to the bridges or docks At sunset the freshet was gradually subsiding.

All has been perfectly quiet along the lines to day.

The Tribune has a letter from Kinston, dated the 16th, which says: The defenses which the rebels abandoned are of a very powerful description and could have been held by Bragg's command for an indefinite time had there been no other enemy to threaten them than Schofield. The defense consisted of two lines of works, the out line situated on the northern bank of Southwest creek and extended across the road leading to Kinston and into the swamp. On each side were four guns, and when these were manned, they swept the road and could have annihilated any approaching column. Flanking these works was out of the question, as the ground was impassable either to the right hand or to the left. The second line was constructed on the northern bank of Neuse river, immediately around the city, and was stronger than the first. The town could have been held by the rebels had not their rear been garrisoned, before our advance, by the 67th North Carolina regiment reinforced by Hoke's division and by a portion of Gen. Hill's troops. Upon evacuating, all the rebel arms and munitions of war were taken along except two guns dismounted. Upon the river there was a line of works and a large quantity of ammunition in bomb proofs. The inhabitants nearly all remained in the town. Deserters come in rapidly and report that Bragg's troops are on the retreat direct to Raleigh. This report is confirmed by the inhabitants of Kinston.

Washington, March 21st.

Gen. Sherman wrote several days ago from Fayetteville, to a friend, that he had received his supplies from up Cape Fear river and was at the time of writing, ready to move again. He had followed, with a slight exception, the path laid out before he left Savannah. He states he had ordered the arsenal at Fayetteville blown up, as he hardly thought the government would need an arsenal in future in either of the Carolinas. Johnston army was at or near Goldsboro, and it is believed he has not more than forty thousand men.

New York, March 21st.

The Herald's special says: It was reported in Washington yesterday, that Jeff Davis had abdicated the position of President of the rebel Confederacy and handed over the reins of his sinking government to Lee, with the understanding that the latter, as supreme dictator, would make one last desperate effort with such resources as are left within his control. All kinds of provisions are now bringing fabulous prices in Richmond, and every male in the city capable of carrying a musket, has been pressed into the army.

Local Matters.

One of the most severe snow and wind storms of the winter visited this region on Friday night last. Yesterday morning the sun came out again with the assurance of delightful weather; but of what duration, we dare not surmise. We've made up our mind to take it as it cometh and try and be as content and amiable as we can.

F. Norman McLeod omitted one of his excellent sermon in camp on Sunday. It is gratifying to see the volunteers turn out in such round numbers to listen to the word of God. The sermons of this Rev. gentleman are listened to with interest and warmly appreciated by his congregation.

Lieut Co. Milo George, Major Bull Paymaster, and his assistant, Mr. Belden, and Lieut Jocelyn A. C. M., returned to Camp Douglas from Fort Bridger, on Friday last.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION VEDETTE.]

Chicago, March 21st.

The floods in New York and Pennsylvania having reached their highest points, are reported to be going down as rapidly as they came.

Fort. Monroe, March 19th.

In pursuance of the call of the Mayor of Wilmington, on the evening of the 14th, a very large meeting, including some of the most prominent citizens, was held having for its object the adoption of resolutions whereby the authority of the United States Government would be recognized and held in obedience. Several speeches were made and the resolutions were adopted. The Mayor, in closing his speech, remarked, my friends, let us to-night forget and forgive all past political differences, and live only for the future, resolving that henceforth it shall be our aim and object to secure peace, promote prosperity, and add to the glory and grandeur of our country. This was greeted with prolonged applause.

Washington, March 20th

The President has appointed John Bigelow, present Charge de Affairs at Paris, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at the Court of France; also appointed Hon. Ambrose W. Clarke, late Representative in Congress from New York, to be Consul at Valparaiso. Brig. Gen. John S. Mason has been appointed to command the District of Arizona.

New York, March 21.

The Heralds City Point correspondent of the 20th says; Sheridan reached White House on the 19th. He lost only 50 men and two officers. Nearly two hundred negroes came in with him. He had to turn back a large number as he was wholly unable to feed or protect them; latterly however he could do better as the negroes managed to procure their own subsistence on the march.

News from Venezuela dated Caraccas Febry, 24th. The country is described in most wretched state of anarchy. Most of the provinces were isolated from the Capital and all mail communications is being destroyed by the warring factions and only a few of the legislators of the Republic are in Paris, the other in Lima, Peru, were in existence. The El Fanista organ of the Falcin government says in Truhillo called the sovereign State of Andes, many believe that independence is disorder and in Maracabo and the conceived idea of an independent Republic, new secretaries of war and Treasury were appointed. The Eastern States live without prosperity and debility ruins them.

New Orleans, 13th.

The Picayune's extra says: on Saturday last an attack was made on two batteries defending Mobile Bay by the monitors and two of them silenced the batteries, driving the men from their guns.

It is reported that the rebel Gen. Hindman, while en route to Mexico, was shot by some person unknown, but was supposed to be confederates, between Oak Hall and the Rio Grande. He had a number of wagons and ambulances, and it is supposed, in addition, considerable plate and coin. When killed, he was in advance of the train.

SEOND TO NONE IN THIS TER'TRY.
